Dear Bradley,

Prescott College and Environmental Science

Prescott is a small town, and Prescott College is a small community. Rumors can fly around pretty fast and loose. I was awakened in the middle of my usual office afternoon nap to discover a particularly pernicious rumor was ricocheting around the community. Like most rumors and conspiracy theories, there is a kernel of truth in there somewhere but it is obscured by embellishments, a lack of context, simple misunderstandings, or even untethered personal agendas. Class Notes

Reed Atherton ('76)

Reed writes, "On August 28, I entered the stage of life I call retired with income. I contrast this to my life starting with Prescott College in 1971 and ending in 1976, which I call retirement without money. In between 1976 and now I 'struggled for the legal tender,' got an engineering degree, worked for 36 years, married, helped raise two sons, and tried to be environmentally and socially responsible. BTW, I vote at every election and will continue to do so. We shall see what the next chapter holds."

Jeff Baierlein '94

Jeff is the director of Viristar LLC (www.viristar.com), which provides consulting and training to outdoor programs worldwide.

Steve Crow '91

Since graduating from Prescott College, Steve has earned a master's in education from Northern Arizona University and a doctorate in educational leadership from UC-Davis. Steve writes, "I have served as a vice president and chief financial officer for public and private colleges. I recently retired from the California Community College system and currently serve as the interim vice president of finance and administration at Sierra Nevada College (SNC) Incline Village. SNC is a small non-profit college facing many of the same challenges that Prescott College faces. I understand these challenges and currently work hard to help in any way I can to sustain institutions that provide these valuable services. I also believe that volunteering to help these institutions is a good way for me to give back to the systems that have served me so well."

Robert McGillicuddy '04 and Stella Moss '04

Robert and Stella live near the Gallitan River in Bozeman, Montana. Finley Lyell McGillicuddy, born April 3, 2017, is their firstborn son. Robert works as a guide for Montana Angler Flyfishing in Bozeman and Helicopterskiing.com in the Ruby Mountains on the Eastern side of the Great Basin in Nevada. Robert also works as a ski instructor and guide at Montana Yellowstone Club. Robert writes, "Nothing has prepared me more for my work in guiding than my training in the wilderness leadership program at Prescott College."
