

Dear reader,

Spring is just around the corner, and we've been busy doing some cleaning. We have heard your concerns regarding newsletter readability and are actively experimenting with a new interactive layout for ECOS. We have started by utilizing our website to share topics like Class Notes and Faculty News, thereby bridging a gap between our alumni and current students who are curious about other avenues they can venture into after graduating. Other things like articles and events will contain small summaries in ECOS with direct links that will take you to a perspective PC web page, where you can read them in their entirety. We are your link to Prescott College, and we want this newsletter to be a good resource for everyone.

We would love and appreciate any feedback; our team email can be found below.

Thank you for your continued devotion to the Prescott College community.

Sincerely,

Jane Ratzlaff and The Advancement and Alumni Relations Team

Donor Match and Naming Opportunities

Tom Barry inspired three alumni and friends to match his donation, creating a grand total of $200,000 in available matching funds. Your gift right now will be doubled, and you will join your fellow alums in supporting our College.

Please act now to make a tax-deductible gift and have your donation doubled. Your gift will ensure our College continues to thrive.

In fact, you can see an exclusive preview of our program-based projects here and pick where you want to direct your donation. Another opportunity to see your name on our Prescott College campus is purchasing one of the benches (as seen to the right) for $1,000. Please contact Jane to get your bench today. You belong in our community of change-makers, and that's why we don't want you to miss this opportunity to have your donation doubled and to see your name on campus. Continue the legacy of critical thinkers impacting our world.

Kino Bay Center New Year Update

Prescott College's Kino Bay Center for Cultural and Ecological Studies is proud to announce a groundbreaking alliance with Mexico Pacific for marine species monitoring, marking the first-ever collaboration with a private industry partner in the Gulf of California. Mexico Pacific is committed to responsible development, which extends to monitoring programs outside its own direct project area. The alliance aims to provide crucial summary information about the status and trends of priority species in the broader region to effectively inform conservation and management strategies.

Prescott College Faculty Member Emily Affolter on the project for the Advisory Board for the National Science Foundation TIME

Prescott College Faculty Member Emily Affolter recently presented a project she has been working on with the National Science Foundation Advisory Board: The Institute for Meaningful Engagement, which centers on pedagogical equity and racially minoritized undergraduate student experiences in the STEM fields. Congratulations, Emily.

A Farewell from Marie Smith in Advancement and Alumni Relations

Upon retirement, I look back on my time at Prescott College and realize I have lived a good portion of my life here. I came into a small admissions office on Valentine's Day in 2005 and was immediately introduced to a vivid congregation of colorful and committed people. I can still hear President Dan Garvey's wonderful talks and presentations, envision Liz Faller's dance troupe presentations, or go back in history with Doug Hulme's chautauqua of John Muir. Traveling the country and recruiting those just so special PC students was just the start. I was thrilled to be entrusted with starting a robust alumni recruitment program for the admissions office, which led me to working as the Director of Alumni Relations for many years. I loved creating events for alumni to connect, whether at a Moroccan restaurant in Portland, a tea house in Boulder, at alumni homes, with presentations at various gardens, museums, and galleries, or especially the on-campus reunions of 2010 and 2014. Re-establishing the alumni newsletter, Ecos, and sending monthly news of the College back to the PC community for 17 years was my privilege. Working with many alumni from the charter class to the present has been an honor. For the last few years I have been working remotely as the Advancement database system manager. I have so enjoyed creating so many connections with people who have truly shared their life and talents at Prescott College. Bravo to you all. Farewell. I will miss you.

Thank you to our donors

Thank you for your generosity and commitment to helping us achieve our mission to pursue exceptional interdisciplinary, experiential education in adventure education, environment, sustainability, and social justice. We are grateful for the role you play in giving our students a quality education. Please join us in thanking these generous people who gave in January 2024 here.
